

BAB V

CONCLUSSION AND SUGGESTION

A. Conclusion

Based on the findings of the study, the researcher put forward following conclusions:

1. The research of data analysis from Interview showed that Semiotics The analysis of the song A Million Dreams can be distinguished based on the following definition, where to recognize semiotic signs it can be explained that the relationship between signifiers and signifieds consists of three forms. First, the signifier is an image or direct meaning of the signified. For example, a photo is a direct image of the person being photographed. Such relationships are called icons. Second, the signifier is the result (cause-effect relationship) of the signified. For example, smoke indicates the presence of fire, the sound of people indicates the presence of people who make sounds. Such a relationship is called an index. Third, the signifier is neither cause nor effect nor is it a direct description of the signified, but something that is conventionally connected, and thus arbitrary. For example, the relationship between words and their meanings, the relationship between red lights, traffic lights, and stops. Such a relationship is called a symbol.

2. The Lyric Song A Million Dreams performed by Hugh Jackman and Michelle Wiliams is very interesting because it has several interrelated educational values in the sense of supporting the current generation, where the educational value taught can become a foundation in life, in terms of the educational value that is taught. appeared also clearly visible to listeners, it has been proven that the song A Million Dreams is a song that became the first recommendation in using songs as a medium for language learning. There are eight educational values that can be found by the informants or respondents, namely the religious value which is the first and main foundation in addressing everything, the value of hard work as a form of action or the action of a struggle, then the value of creative education in creating a good thought. new to inspire many people, then the educational value of Love to read for receiving information and sharing information with others, then the value of Discipline education as a form of action in obeying applicable rules and norms, then the value of independent education where our attitude as individuals must always rely on our abilities. themselves, and the value of education. Friendly or always respecting others in terms of differences in opinion, social and cultural differences.

B. Suggestion

Based on the research, the researcher gives some suggestion as follow:

1. The teacher has to know many ways to teach English so that, make the learning process would be running well and enjoyable. The choice of a good media lies in the attitude of the teacher in understanding his students, understanding the conditions, character and duties of the educator himself
2. The results obtained from several theories and other supporting materials are expected to provide broader insight to future teacher candidates. The candidate of teacher is a person who can influence the students in the learning process, by Listen Song A Million Dreams, it can motivate and educate the candidate of the teacher to follows every educational value that is reflected in this Lyric Song.