ABSTRACT

ARIFUDDIN. Students' difficulties in speaking English during Covid-19 at the second grade of MTs. DDI Kanang (Supervised by Arqam and Nurhamdah)

The purpose of this research was to find out the influence of Covid-19 on the mastery English speaking at the second grade of MTs. DDI Kanang. The research are useful for the teachers and students to know students difficulties in speaking English.

The researcher employed a qualitative research approach in this study. The researcher was employed 22 students from class VIII.2 as the subject of the research. The researcher used observation, interview and documentation to collect the data. The three main stages of data analysis used by the researcher were data reduction, data display, and conclusion drawing.

In speaking of MTs. DDI Kanang, the researcher discovered the students' difficulty, cause factors and students strategies to overcome the students difficulties during Covid-19 by data analysis as follows: (1) The students difficulties are forget their lesson before, lack of confidence, fear of making mistake, technical problem, shyness, limited vocabulary, pronouncing problem and limited time. (2) the cause factors by the results they are Internal factors and external factors (3) the students used three strategies they are the students do repetition to overcome their difficulties to not forget their lesson before and to make sure their vocabulary, the students used big group and small group created by the teacher to make students more active in the classroom and make relation with their friend, the students do preparation before come in the class to prepare their self before come to classroom meeting.

INTRODUCTION

A. Background

At this time education in Indonesia is not running normally due to the Covid-19 pandemic which has delayed education in Indonesia. This outbreak subsequently grew until measures were put in place to try to stop Covid-19 from spreading, one of which was based on Law No. 6 of 2018 concerning Health Quarantine.¹ This epidemic can spread quickly, therefore some social activities as well as teaching and teaching activities have also been stopped. However, if this continues, education in Indonesia will be left behind, of course, it will affect the development of the country, therefore several policies made by the government in the form of regulations for using masks, washing hands, and maintaining a distance to prevent the transmission of Covid-19. Therefore, new ways are needed in teaching English to students in the implementation of English learning.

Especially with the current condition of the Covid-19 outbreak, of course, there are new obstacles to learning English lessons, and of course, it also affects learning speaking. Learning to speak requires a lot of application to master it, therefore it takes a lot of time and course a lot of vocabulary to make it easier to apply, the teacher plays an important role in this to help students master this material so that they can help a student if there are difficulties experienced. But with a condition like this, it is possible that there are new difficulties experienced in learning English. For these reasons, the researcher wants to know what are the difficulties experienced by students when learning in speaking English.

In this time, we need to improve the quality of education in Indonesia by increasing students' mastery of English. Especially in speaking English, in accordance with law NO.24 of 2009 concerning the use of foreign languages in education to support students' foreign language skill. One of them is knowing the students' difficulties in learning. Difficulty in the context of learning when translated into English is called disability, which is to give an optimistic impression that students are still able to learn.² In this case, there must be some problems experienced by students so that it is difficult to understand or master learning especially in this current condition. According to Catur widyasworo, in his research there were several difficulties, namely: students' difficulties in speaking English consist of linguistics and non-linguistics problems, linguistics problems are vocabulary, grammar, and pronunciation. Non linguistics problems are inhibition, nothing to say, uneven participant, mother tongue, anxiety, shyness, lack of self-confidence, and low motivation.³ That is one of the reasons why the researcher want to research in MTS DDI KANANG, another reason why the researcher choose this school, because the school was still a new school, so researcher were interested in researching in the place and the school itself was adjacent to one of the courses which was fairly large and some students' there had already entered the course. But, in fact from the result of pre-observations the students' were still difficult in speaking English.

The researcher chose this title because according to students learning English is very difficult, especially in speaking and then in the current conditions. When the researcher conducted a pre-observation, the researcher has an interview with 5 students and they had the same answer, namely the difficulties in learning the English language, especially in speaking. The students in MTs. DDI Kanang feel difficult to apply the speaking English when they learn in their daily activity, especially in class.

Learning English is a learning that is practically mandatory to learn, in addition to enriching the language, it is also one of the international languages used in almost all countries. Learning English is very important, especially in speaking English in public where when we want to be good at speaking English with foreigners, we have to learn how to use it and how English can be mastered. In learning English, of course, requires certain techniques to master it, for example when you want to be good at speaking, you have to increase your vocabulary so that you don't have to worry about speaking English in public and other techniques. In terms of the level of success of students in mastering English learning, of course, the teacher is required to be able to transfer the knowledge, he has obtained in the easiest way so that students can understand the material provided. Teachers must be creative in terms of providing English teaching materials because this learning is classified as material that is quite difficult to master. so that, when students experience difficulties in learning speaking, they can immediately overcome.

The researcher hope that this researcher can be useful for students' to find out what are the difficulties, factors, and how to get out of the problems that students' get in learning English, especially in learning speaking. Then researcher also hope that with this research the teacher can provide motivation or assist the students by providing the latest and most affective learning methods.

Learning speaking is not easy, there are many difficulties when learning speaking. According to Tri indah Rezeki, in her research “The Students’ Difficulties in Learning English at Madrasah Ibtidaiyah Teacher Education Study Program” by using descriptive qualitative.⁴ From the result of the interview and documentation which was conducted by the researchers with students, especially students who have difficulties in learning English, it was concluded that the difficulties of students in learning English were caused by several internal factors and external factors. According to Hamimah Istiqomah, from his research Students’ Difficulties in Speaking In this research, the researcher analyzed students’ recorded interview. The Factors Caused Students’ Difficulties in Speaking English Base on interview done with three students, the factor caused students’ difficulties in learning speaking were because of the Lack of self-confidence, the students felt nervous when recording themselves in front of the camera. Students got difficulties in recording their video assignment since they had to memorize the topic well, then they tried to retell through camera. Discovering Students’ Strategies in Learning Speaking Students had their own way in dealing with their difficulties in speaking activity by gaining more input, either from extensive listening or reading. Finding out Students’ Perceptions in Learning Speaking From the interview conducted, here some students’ perception in learning speaking to complete their assignment, first of all, the students agreed that making video makes their speaking improved as they got more exposure in writing, memorizing, and preparing all materials to talk about the topic.⁵

Based on the background of the difficulties that mention above, explain the findings about the problems and factors experienced by students in learning speaking English. But, from the result of the above no one has researched giving what students' strategy to overcome the Students difficulties. So, the researcher was conducted the research about "Students' difficulties in speaking English during covid-19 at the second grade of MTs. DDI Kanang".

B. Research Question

Recording of the background above the researcher would like to formulate the problem statement as follow:

1. What are students' difficulties in speaking English during Covid-19 at the second grade of MTs. DDI Kanang?
2. What factors make the students' difficulties in speaking English during Covid-19 at the second grade of MTs. DDI Kanang?
3. Students' strategies to overcome their difficulties in speaking English during Covid-19 at the second grade of MTs. DDI Kanang?

C. Objective of the research

Related to the problem statement above, the objectives of the research are:

1. To describe the students difficulties in speaking English during Covid-19 at the second grade of MTs. DDI Kanang.

2. To describe Factors make the students difficulties in speaking English during Covid-19 at the second grade of MTs. DDI Kanang.
3. To describe what students' strategies to overcome their difficulties in speaking English during Covid-19 at the second grade of MTs. DDI Kanang.

D. Significance of the research

1. For the teacher

This research can useful for English teacher to increase their understanding about student's difficulties in speaking English, and the outcome of the study will serve as feedback to them about the difficulties of teaching speaking implemented in this junior high schools. By knowing the difficulties, they may hope that they are motived to discover ways to solves them.

2. For the researcher

By knowing the students' difficulties in speaking English, the researcher gains new knowledge about what the difficulties students experience in speaking English, and the researcher can predict what thing need to be improved in teaching English.

3. For the school

This researcher can enrich the treasury of knowledge of the school to reach the advancement of the school to competence in the knowledge development competition.

REVIEW OF RELATED LITERATURE

The review of related literature is the subject of this chapter. In order to comprehend some nations, it is necessary to expound on various theories that are used in this study. The research was based on a number of similar theories.

A. Preview Research Findings

First research findings was from Sayuri Conducted an analysis students speaking problems at Mulawarman University, the researcher found that students faced problem in speaking English related to pronunciation, fluency, grammar, and vocabulary. The other problems which were obtained from personal students' information, namely not having self-confidence, being afraid of making mistake, shyness to other, nervousness, inhabit in speaking, never practice, and nothing to say.⁶ Some students made unanticipated blunders when speaking, they felt never hearing in how to pronounce words, a lack of practice, confusing grammatical rules, difficulties utilizing tenses, uncertainty in applying grammar in the appropriate sentence, and a lack of reading habits.

Second research finding was from Lalu khairi Ramadhani, in her research "An Analysis of Student Difficulties in Speaking English: A Case Study at The Second Grade Student of SMKN 2 Mataram Academic Year 2017/2018" said that dominant difficulties faced by student are related to the mastery of important point. Those are Vocabulary, grammar, and pronunciation.⁷ from the internal factor that dominantly causes the students difficulties in speaking English is lack of knowledge, and the factor are caused by teacher's materials and the learning methodology that teachers used in the classroom. The teacher's attitude who comes late to the class, the classroom atmosphere were effect the Teaching learning process.

The third research finding was from Al hosni with the title "speaking difficulties en counter by young EFL learner revealed that the main speaking difficulties encountered by grade 5 students are linguistics difficulties, mother tongue use, and inhibition. Students are unable to speak in English because they lack the necessary vocabulary items and grammar structures. They also lack sentence formation skills, which result in using the mother tongue. Students also think of making mistakes in speaking in preferring not to speak to avoid such situations.⁸

In his research, he described five main factor that contribute to the existence of the speaking difficulties: teachers perceptions and tacit beliefs of teaching speaking, teaching strategies, curriculum, extracurricular activities, and assessment regulations.

The fourth entitled "The Difficulties Encountered by Non-English Department Students in Speaking English". The International Journal is conducted by Rima Rahmaniah. This research used descriptive quantitative approach.⁹ Based on the data from test difficulties encountered by second year student of Indonesian department are first was from grammar aspect, there were 80% of students almost entirely inaccurate expect in stock phrases. Second, fluency aspect, there were 73% speech is very slow and uneven except, for short or routine sentence. Third, it is pronunciation aspect there were 73% of students gross error and very heavy accent make understanding difficult require frequent repetition. Fourth is vocabulary aspect there were 60% of students' vocabulary is limited to basic personal and survival areas. The last it is from comprehension aspect there were 55% of students understands only slow, very simple speech on common social touristic topics; requires 33 constant repetition and rephrasing. And the factor were faced there are two factors, from internal factor and external factor.

Based on the research findings above, the researcher is interested to find out the students' difficulties in speaking during Covid-19 in that school. The researcher decides to determine the title of his research "Students' difficulties in speaking during Covid-19 at the second grade of MTS DDI KANANG".

B. Some Pertinent Ideas

This section discusses some relevant theories which are related to the study.

1. Concept of speaking

a. Definition of speaking

Speaking has numerous definitions, one of which is Speaking a specific language is not an instant skill that can be learned in a single day. Producing, receiving, and digesting information are all part of the interactive process of generating meaning that is speaking. Its shape and meaning are determined by the context in which it takes place, which includes the participants, their shared experiences, the physical surroundings, and the reasons for speaking. It's frequently unscripted, open-ended, and developing.¹⁰

¹⁰ Brown, 1994; Burns & Joyce, 1997 (area.dge.mec.pt/gramatica/whatspeakingis.htm, accessed on 24th February, 2022).

Clark and Clark, on the other hand, define communication as involving two core activities: listening and speaking. People convey their thoughts through words when they speak, and they talk about perceptions, feelings, and intentions that they want other people to comprehend. Meanwhile, Spratt points out that speaking entails utilizing speech to express meaning to others.¹¹

Speaking ability, according to Keith and Morrow, is an activity in which two or more individuals collaborate to form utterances in oral communication. The participants, who are both speaker and hearer, must react to what they hear and make. Aside from that, speaking is talking to someone about something while utilizing your voice to publicly communicate your viewpoint.¹²

From all of definition above the researcher assumed, that speaking is one way of communicating with other people and to convey what we want to talk about such as idea, suggestion, or feeling in oral communication.

b. The element of speaking

According to Brown, there are some elements of speaking skill that students should consider when speaking.

1. Pronunciation, includes the segmental features of vowels, consonants, stress, and intonation patterns. The speaker is required to pronounce English word correctly.
2. Fluency, It is probably best achieved by allowing the air stream of speech to flow then allowing some of this speech to spill over beyond comprehensibility. The words should be spoken naturally by the speaker.

¹¹ Clark and Clark, “ psychology and Language” on Prucesia Kumara Silva, Improving Student’s speaking skill through the use of video clips (Unpublished Thesis State university of Yogyakarta, 2013), p.11

3. Accuracy, Through regulated and guided activities, the right use of vocabulary, grammar, and pronunciation is practiced. The speaker should talk in a clear, grammatically correct, and phonologically correct manner. Comprehension, In a nutshell, speaking entails not just knowing how to generate the language correctly, but also knowing when, what, and why to produce it.¹³

c. Types of speaking

1. Imitative, The ability to just parrot back (imitate) a word, phrase, or maybe a sentence is at one end of a continuum of sorts of speaking performance. While this is a strictly phonetic level of oral output, the criterion performance may incorporate a number of prosodic, lexical, and grammatical features of language.
2. Intensive, Short intervals of oral language designed to demonstrate mastery of a specific set of grammatical, phrasal, lexical, or phonological links.
3. Responsive, Interaction and understanding testing are included in responsive, but only at a limited level of extremely short chats, standard greetings, small talk, simple requests, and comments. This is a type of quick response to a teacher's or a student's inquiry or comment, in which the teacher or student gives instructions and directions. Those responses are typically adequate and informative.

¹³ Brown, H. Douglas, Teaching by Principles: An Interactive Approach to Language Pedagogy. (San Francisco: State University, 2004)

4. Extensive, Speeches, oral representations, and narrative are examples of extensive oral production tasks in which the opportunity for oral participation from listeners is either severely constrained (possibly to nonverbal answers) or completely eliminated.
 5. Interactive, The length and intricacy of the interaction distinguishes responsive and interactive speaking skills. There may be several exchanges and/or participants in some cases. Transactional language, which is used to share specific information, and interpersonal interactions, which are used to sustain social relationships, are two types of interaction.¹⁴
- d. The function of speaking

For English learners, speaking is essential. Learners need to know the language not just for classroom interaction, but also to prepare for social contact outside of the classroom. Speaking, often known as 'oral communication,' is a two-person activity in which listeners and speakers must react quickly to what they hear and make their contributions. (Johnson and Morriw, 1981, Lia Amalia, 2015).¹⁵

Students' speaking ability must be improved since they will be able to make a correctly grammatical sentence if they can apply sentence or grammar rules to practice speaking outside of the classroom. It implies that learning linguistic structures isn't enough to communicate effectively. Many students find it challenging to communicate in English, which may be one of the reasons why so many academics are interested in conducting this type of research. On the other hand, as a tutor, the teacher did not pay enough attention to this issue. Teaching speaking is a burden for the teachers. Most teachers simply instruct pupils to read a dialogue, do an exercise, and memorize the information. The teacher does not allow the students to speak freely. Motivation and occasionally a crowded classroom with a teacher, who is more talkative than the students.

¹⁵ Amalia. Lia, Bachelor Thesis : "Improving Students' Speaking skills through speaking Board Games of Grade VIII of SMP N 13 Yogyakarta" (Yogyakarta: Yogyakarta state University, 2015, 8)

People must be able to communicate their feelings and thoughts effectively. The most vital ability for achieving the purpose of communication is speaking. When two persons converse. It's all about communication. Communication has become increasingly sophisticated, and it is especially important in the learning and teaching process. The roles of communication, according to Harmer (2001), there are three reasons why we should be able to communicate with others. They are: (1) As humans, we must express ourselves. (2) We speak because we want something to happen as a result of what we say, such as providing information, expressing feelings, agreeing or disagreeing with something, or making a statement to someone. (3) At times, we must choose the language that we believe is appropriate for the situation. The researcher can conclude from the above assertions that the main function or goals of increasing students' speaking skill is to prepare students to become experts in English speaking, such as express thought and be able to convey the meaning of idea, opinion, sentiment, and so on.¹⁶

Ruchard¹⁷ (2008) according to his studies, there are two primary roles

¹⁶ Ayu Fitriana, The Effectiveness of Role play on students'self SpeakingSkill, Skripsi, p. 8, (Jakarta: Syarif Hidayatullah State Islamic University), 2014

of speaking: transactional function and interpersonal or interactional function. The first function is transactional, which is used to communicate information and allow the exchange of products and services. The second function is interactional, which is used to maintain excellent relationships between two individuals.

2. Concept of Difficulties in Learning Speaking

a. Problem faced by the students'

Difficulty is a difficult, in problem, and trouble, according to the Big Indonesian Dictionary. In this example, difficulty refers to the difficulty of doing something, as well as a condition that describes the qualities of activities aimed at achieving a goal. In learning speaking, the students are usually faced by the problems during teaching learning process. According to Penny Ur (1996), the students' speaking difficulties are: inhibition, nothing to say, low or uneven participation, and mother tongue use.¹⁸

1) Inhibition

In speaking, learners are often inhibition about trying to say things in a foreign language in the classroom. The students worried about making mistake, fearful criticism or losinf are, simply shy of the attention that their speech attracts.

2) Nothing to say

Even if they are not inhibited, learners complain that they cannot think of anything to say, they have no motive to express themselves beyond the quality feeling that they should be speaking. Not many students know the vocabulary and the grammar so they should be able to motivate themselves to have to speak to train their skill.

3) Low or uneven participation

Only one participant at a time can talk if he is to be heard and in large group, this means that everyone will have only very little speaking time. This problem is compounded by the tendency of some learners to dominate, while others speak very little or not at all.

4) Mother tongue use

The phenomenon of students we see today a number of students are accustomed to using mother tongue, they tend to use his mother tongue because it is indeed familiar since they where small, so its' easier to talk to their fellow. They feel less to speak a foreign language so that lack of motivation. They are so accustomed to using foreign language.

b. The cause factor of difficulties in speaking

In learning every student faces their difficulties especially in speaking. And there are several factors that cause the difficulties, according to Dalyono (2001)¹⁹, cause factor of learning difficulties divided into two groups, they are:

a) Internal factors

1. Couse of physiology factors

1) Because sick

Unwell people who are unwell are losing their physical strength. As a result, the sensory and motoric nerves will be affected. And the stimulus that they have received through their sensory experience cannot have a direct effect on the brain.

2) Because less of health

The people who less of health, they will face difficulty in learning because tired, sleepy, dizzy and their loss of concentration. Because that cases they cannot understand the material who given by their teacher maximally.

2. Cause of psychology factors

According Ahmadi and Suriyono, psychology factor divide into six kinds, they are:

1) Intelligence

Students with a high IQ typically have an easier time-solving problems and comprehending the content presented by the teacher than their peers with lower IQs. People with an IQ of 110 to 140 are said to as intelligent. A Genius is defined as a person with an IQ of 140 or higher.

2) Aptitude

Aptitude is natural ability carried since born. Every person has different aptitude. The person who has aptitude in music may be she or he low sector and other. The students will easy learn based on their aptitude, if they learn out of their aptitude they will get bored and unhappy. That appear when the students make noisy in the class, bother their friends and do not want do their task in order they get low score.

3) Interest

The desire to pay attention is referred to as interest. to something or to the prospect of becoming associated with and to learn more about a subject. If the children don't have any, they'll have to make do with what they have an interest in the material, but they are having difficulty learning it lesson. The kids' existing interests can be determined by their learning style or reaction to the teachings.

In addition to the physiology element, the psychology factor has an impact on students' learning. Inter-factors include physiology and psychology. It originates with the students themselves. The psychological aspect has a significant impact on students' learning. Students can manage possible for students to manage it on their own.

b) External factors

1. Non-social factors

1) Tool factors

Less of a role for tool lessons in teaching and learning activities, particularly in practicum lessons. If there is no language laboratory, for example, students will not be able to learn to their full potential. As a result, the teacher only employs the peaking approach. As a result, kids may become inactive, making learning more difficult for them.

2) The classroom condition

The condition of the classroom must make the students comfortable, such as the classroom must be clean, there is enough ventilation and far from the ado.

2. Social factors

1) Family factor

Family is the center education for the students, because the main and they learn from family first. How the parent educate their children is important, it will influence children learning

2) Social environment

Friends have a greater impact on students' learning.

Students will be lethargic if they associate with an uneducated acquaintance because the lives of educated and uneducated individuals are very different. The students' learning is also influenced by their social activities. For example, some students are members of certain groups and are unable to manage their time to learn, causing their learning to be disrupted.

3) Technology

Technology helps people in accomplishing their goals. Such as a computer, a laptop, a phone, the internet, and so on. That technology is required by the school to help students learn and obtain additional information about their lessons. However, if they do not use it depending on their needs, it will disrupt their learning.

The researcher concludes that successful learners are influenced by both internal and external factors. As a result, it is not solely dependent on the students, but also social variables. Such as the student's family history, the teacher's teaching approach, the school's facilities, and so on. Students' learning is influenced by both internal and external forces.

c. Strategies the Students to Help Speaking Difficulties

Students are generally hesitant to speak because they are shy and uncomfortable expressing themselves in front of others, especially when requested to provide personal information or ideas. There is frequently a fear of speaking improperly and hence losing face in front of their classmates. According to Harmer (2007)²⁰, there are several kinds of students' strategies to help themselves in speaking difficulties:

a) Repetition

Repetition has many beneficial effects. Each new encounter with a word or phrase help to fix it in the students' memory. Repetition also allows them to improve on what they did before. They can think about how to re-word things or just get a feel for how it sounds. When students repeat speaking activities that they have already completed once (or twice), the first attempt serves as a warm-up for the final performance. Each rehearsal boosts their confidence because they aren't trying to say something for the first time when they try to speak in subsequent 'performances.'

b) Big group and Small group

One of the main reasons why some students are hesitant to participate in speaking events is because they are forced to speak in front of a large audience. To offset this, make sure they have opportunities to talk and interact in smaller groups as well. This can be used to start a conversation or a topic.

²⁰ Jeremy Harmer, The Practice of English Language Teaching (4th ed). Harlow, Pearson Education Limited (2007).

c) Mandatory participation

Harmer, states when groups do a task, there will always be ‘social loafers’, the students who sit back and let everyone else do the work.

d) Preparation

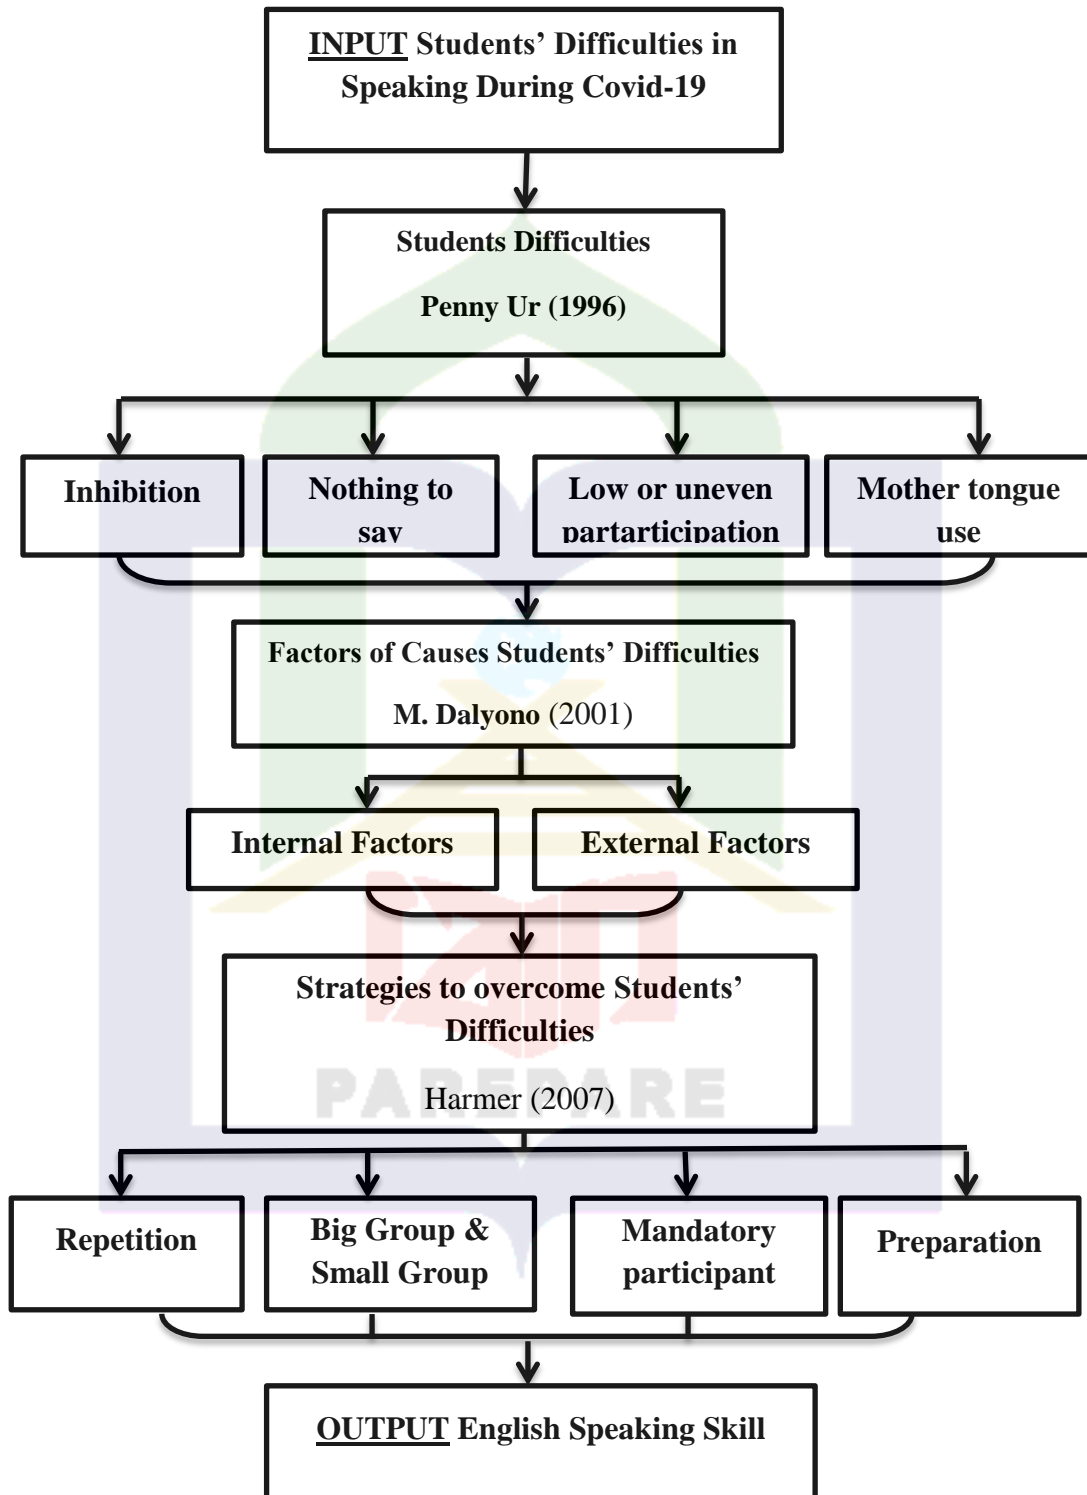

Describes how students record presentations they are going to make and transcribe what they have said, correct it then hand it over to the teacher for further comment before finally making the presentation.

C. Conceptual Framework

One of the students' abilities which until now has become a major problem in learning English is speaking ability. Speaking is one of the subjects that students in Indonesia need to learn and practice. Language learning requires students to increase their practice to become accustomed to it but the current phenomenon shows that teachers tend to pay less attention to students' speaking practices and only focus on the process of transferring knowledge and written grammar so that the time for speaking practice in the classroom is very less. The main components above are describes as follow:

1. Input: refers to knowing what the students' difficulties experience during Covid-19, the caus factors, and what students' strategies use to overcome their difficulties experienced during Covid-19.
2. Output: refers to the students' speaking skill productif. The reasercher hopes that the students will not be difficult to say a word and the teacher will know the students difficulties in speaking English and giving new strategies to overcome the students' difficulties.

Conceptual framework underlying this research will be given in the following diagrams:

METHODOLOGY OF RESEARCH

This part will discuss about research design, location and time, population and sample, focus of the research, types and data source, instrument, and data collection techniques.

A. Research Design

Research, according to Anderson and Arsenault, is a type of inquiry that investigates phenomena in their natural environments and use a variety of methodologies to interpret, analyze, explain, and provide meaning to them.²¹ The type of research design used in this research is case study, this type is included as one type of qualitative research. Qualitative research, according to McMillan and Schumacher, describes and analyzes people's individual and collective social activities, beliefs, thoughts, and perceptions.²² Furthermore, qualitative research is particularly useful for acquiring culturally relevant information on a population's beliefs, attitudes, behaviors, and social contexts.

The researcher concluded that qualitative research is a type of inquiry that studies people's experiences or phenomena in their natural contexts in order to obtain knowledge. According to the preceding description, this study used qualitative research, and the researcher served as both a researcher and an observer. As a result, the researcher detailed the students' challenges in learning to talk and the causes of their difficulties in learning to speak in this study.

²² James H. McMillan and Sally Schumacher, Research in Education: A Conceptual Introduction, (New York: Longman, 2001), p.395.

B. Location and Time

During this study process, the location of this research dwelt at MTs. DDI Kanang, Polewali Mandar, West Sulawesi. The researcher used the qualitative research and would be done for one month and the reason why the researcher choose this location because this school has used offline and online classes in the lerning process during the Covid-19 period.

C. Scope of the Research

1. Research Subject

The subjects in this study were students of the second grade of MTs. DDI Kanang, and the number of students is 22 people.

2. Object of research

The object of the research is students' difficulties in speaking English during Covid-19 of the second grade of MTs. DDI Kanang.

D. Data source

In this study, researchers divided the data into two types, namely primary data and secondary data.

1. Primary Data

Primary data is the main data obtained directly from the object under study. The results of the observations and interviews are the primar data from this research, which are the main sources of this research.

2. Secondary Data

Secondary data is a source of research data obtained indirectly through intermediary media obtained or recorded by other parties. Secondary data used in this study is in the form of notes or reports on student learning outcomes during online learning.

E. Collecting Data and Processing Techniques

The researcher was the most important tool in this study. The human is the instrument of naturalistic inquiry. As a result, the researcher serves as an important tool in this study. In this case, the data was collected using a triangulation of methods. The goal of method triangulation is to improve one understanding of whatever is being examined, not to ascertain the truth about any social issue. Then, the triangulation of the method consists of observation, interview, and documentation. The description of those instruments is as follows:

1. Observation

Observation is a method of collecting data in which the researcher observes the research situation. When observing participants in a natural context for this study, the researcher took a note during the learning speaking process. In this case the researcher wrote, analyzed and made inference about the object under study. The following are the specifications used by the researcher:

- 1) The researcher chooses the class as the subject of this section.
- 2) The researcher entered the class and analysed what the students feel in the class during covid-19 to find students difficulties and cause factors that make the students difficulties in speaking English during Covid-19 in class room.
- 3) After that, the researcher are collected all data and makes a note about what the students feel in the class.

2. Interview

When you want to know what people think or feel about something, interviews are a good research technique.²³ The interview was employed as a supporting instrument in this research to collect data for the students'. The interviewed the students' about her opinion of the difficulties in speaking English, cause of difficulties in speaking English that she faced in the class, and what students' strategies to overcome their difficulties in online class. Furthermore, the purpose of this interview is to verify the outcome of the observation and obtain additional data for this research. In this interview the researcher was divide into two parts, they are open interview and pocus interview.

3. Documentation

Documentation in the research referred to by the researcher is a data collection technique that is not directly aimed at the research source, but through a document. The document referred to by the researcher is written material or inanimate objects related to a particular event or activity. Either in the form of recordings or written documents, such as database archives, correspondence, picture recordings, and relics related to an event.

This documentation is used to provide additional evidence in which the results of interviews and observations will be more reliable/valid if supported by documentation in the form of photos, videos or other forms of documents. In this case the researcher collect the data from students achievement to see that there are the effect of Covid-19 in this school.

F. Test The Validity of Data

In qualitative research, the researcher presents the information as the subject's real life. In order to arrive at a more effective outcome, this qualitative study applied some approaches to maintain the data's validity. Triangulation is used to make the data valid. Qualitative validity means that the researcher's findings were evaluated for accuracy using specific processes. The technique used to improve the validity of data in qualitative research was triangulation, there were six kind of triangulation, there are as follow:

1. Triangulation of time is divided into two types: cross-sectional and longitudinal triangulation. In a cross-sectional study, data is collected from different groups at the same time, whereas in a longitudinal study, data is collected from the same group at different times.
2. Triangulation of place. It is important to consider the different places for similar data in triangulation of location to improve data collecting accuracy.
3. Triangulation of theory. Data is collected based on different theories or by analyzing the same data with several theories in triangulation of theory.
4. Triangulation of method. In triangulation method the researcher used different method for collecting similar data.
5. Researcher triangulation. In researcher triangulation, for collecting the same data, it will be done by some people.
6. Triangulation of methodology. The data obtained from the same learning process with distinct approaches, namely quantitative and qualitative, is triangulated by the researcher, who collects both types of data from those approaches.²⁴

The researcher employed a technique called triangulation in this study. The researcher employed three data collection procedures in triangulation of method:

²⁴ Ag. Bambang Setiyadi, Op.Cit., pp.346-347.

observation, interview, and documentation. The focus of the observation was on the students' process in learning speaking and the difficulties they faced.

G. Data analysis Procedure

The process of organizing data in order to achieve regularity of pattern and form in research is known as data analysis. There are three current activity flows, according to Miles and Huberman: data reduction, data display, and conclusion drawing or verification.²⁵

These are clear explanation about data analysis process of this research:

1. Data Reduction

Data reduction refers to the process of selecting, focusing, sampling, abstracting and transforming the data that appear in written up field notes or transcription. In this case, the researcher collect data from observation of teaching and learning process, conducted interviews with students and take students learning outcomes report as the field of documentation. The following are the specifications used by the researcher:

- a. The researcher come to the school at VIII.2 class to do observation, in this section the reasearcher made two observations to make sure the data.
- b. After collect the data from observation the researcher conduct the interview with 22 within two days.
- c. And the last section the researcher take permission to take the data from students learning outcomes to complete data from observation and interview.

²⁵ Matthew B. Miles and A. Michael Huberman, Qualitative Data Analysis, (Thousand Oaks : Sage Publications, 1994), p.10.

2. Data Display

A display can be a long piece of text, a diagram, graph, chart, table, or matrix that offers a new way of thinking about data that is more textually embedded. Additional, higher order categories or themes may arise from the data during the display stage, in addition to those revealed during the data reduction process.

The following are some of the activities that the researcher has done in data display while analyzing the data:

a. Observing the teaching and learning process

The researcher used an observation sheet to watch the teaching and learning process in order to determine how effective the process of teaching and learning speaking was. The researcher provided knowledge into the teaching and learning process as well as the students' difficulties in learning speaking during COVID-19 by observing the class.

b. Interviewing the Students'

In this stage, the researcher conducted an interview with the Students' to learn about the students' difficulties in learning speaking, the causes of the difficulties and students strategies to overcome their difficulties in learning speaking during COVID-19 in online class. The researcher discovered what was causing the difficulties in learning speaking by interviewing the students'.

c. Documentation

After observation and interviewing, the researcher collect documentation data as a complement in this research to obtain data validity.

3. Conclusion Drawing or verification

By analyzing observation data, interview data, and documentation data, the researcher came to a conclusion and verified the answer to the study question that had been displayed in the data. As a result, the researcher came to the conclusion the students difficulties in learning speaking during COVID-19 at the second grade of MTS DDI KANANG.

CAPTER IV

FINDINGS AND DISCUSSION

A. Findings

The researcher then assessed the information gathered by observation, interview, and documentation. Data reduction, data display, and conclusion drawing and verification are the three main stages of data analysis.

The researcher's results provided answers to the problems stated in the first chapter. This part also presented the data analysis of students' difficulties in speaking English during Covid-19. In order to collect the data, the researcher used observation, interview, and documentation to find out the students' difficulties in speaking English that referred into aspect and dominant factors. According to the theory, the researcher used qualitative method. For more details will be explained as follows:

1. Students' difficulties in speaking English during Covid-19

The researcher used an observation and conducted interviews with the students to learn about their difficulties in speaking. According to Penny Ur, the issues that learner speakers deal with can be divided into four categories: Inhibition, nothing to say, low or uneven participation, and mother tongue use. In this result used observation, interview and support by documentation to find out the students' difficulties in speaking English.

a. Inhibition

From the first and second observation On Tuesday, July 26, 2022, and on Wednesday October 3, 2022, the researcher found that students' feel inhibition in learning speaking when they are lack of vocabulary, lack of confidence, failure to apply grammar, failure to pronounce words correctly, and lack of confidence.

From interview consists of five questions about students difficulties, the researcher divide into two parts to know students difficulties they are open interview and focused interview. From open interview, the researcher found that student feel inhibition when they didn't have data connection. "Saya kesulitan dalam belajar online karena saya tidak punya kuota", and some students said feel inhibition when they are didn't have a mobile phone, "Susah kalau mau ikut belajar karena tidak ada handphone, di teman ikut belajar". The students also feel inhibition when the teacher's voice is not clear, "kadang tidak kedengaran suaranya guru kalau mengirim voice chat".

From open interview the researcher found the students feel difficulties in speaking English in online class when they didn't have money for buy data connection, there is no teacher, less in pronounce and grammar, low connection, less vocabulary, less understand. "Saya terhalang karena tidak ada uang untuk membeli kuota", "Saya terhalang kalau ingin belajar karena susah dapat guru", "Terhalang karena penyebutan huruf dan grammar", "Kadang terhalang ketika ada tugas tapi tidak bisa di download karena jaringan susah", "Saya terhalang ketika jaringan tidak bagus dan kurang vocabulary", "Kadang terhalang ketika ada tugas karena susah dipahami pelajaran", they are data from interview result.

From the observation and interview the students feel difficult in speaking English they are:

- 1) Lack of vocabulary.
- 2) Failure to apply grammar.
- 3) Failure to pronounce words correctly.
- 4) Lack of confidence.
- 5) Shyness.
- 6) Technical problem.

b. Nothing to say

From observation the researcher found that students feel nothing to say when they are coming to the class, when the students come to the class they are just listen and repeted what teacher says until the lesson finish. From interview the researcher found that the students feel nothing to say when they are speaking, some students said, “Kadang merasa tidak bisa berkata-kata karena malu dan grogi”, and the other hand some students said, “Tidak bisa berkata-kata karena takut diketawai”.

From the observation and interview the resecrher find that students feel nothing to say in speaking English when they are nervous and afraid of being laughed.

c. Low or uneven participation

From observation, the researcher found the students low or uneven participation. The students didn't do praying before begin the lesson, the students didn't talk to much just listen and repeted what the teacher says, its make the students feel difficult to speak English fluently. From interview the researcher found that the students feel difficult because low or uneven participation, some students said “Saya tidak terlalu aktif dikelas karena masih kurang kosa kata yang ditau”, and the other hand said “saya kurang aktif dikelas karena tidak ada handphone”.

From the observation and interview the resecrher find that students feel nothing to say in speaking English when they are:

- 1) The students didn't do praying before begin the lesson.
- 2) The students didn't talk to much in class.
- 3) The students not have a mobile phone.

d. Mother thongue

From observation the researcher didn't found students difficult in speaking English because mother thongue, but from interview the researcher found that their mother thongue are effect to the students when they are speaking in English. Some students said "kadang susah bicara bahasa inggris karena penyebutan bahasa ibu beda dengan bahasa inggris", other students also said "kalau bicara bahasa inggris sering salah ucap karena bahasa ibunya belum bisa disesuaikan".

The documentation in this research to support the data from observation and interview, the documentation referred to by the researcher in this case, is in the form of records of student learning outcomes in learning English during online learning with offline learning, to see the impact of student difficulties during the Covid-19 period on students achievement.

From these two semesters, there was a decrease in the second semester where the average score of students in the first semester was 84.2 and in the second semester was 80.6. In the first semester, students are still studying online but after entering the second semester learning starts to return to normal. This shows that, there are things that make students' grades decrease.

According to the findings of observation, the responses provided by the students on the interview sheets and support by the documentation, the following issues were encountered by the students:

- 1) The students feel have many obstacles they are forget their lesson before, lack of conpidance, feer of making mistake, and technical problame.
- 2) The students feel shyness and limited vocabulary when the teacher giving a change to speak English in voice chat.

- 3) The students feel difficulties in pronouncing words and limited time to talking in online class.

Based on the above issues, it may be concluded that students experienced the issues raised in the theory, as well as additional issues with speaking learning. After conducting an analysis and coming to a conclusion, the researcher should have contributed to the research in a more beneficial method. For students to be interested in speaking lessons and be able to construct effective sentences and pronounce words correctly, the teacher's engaging teaching methods, pronunciation instruction, and understanding of grammar should be used.

2. Cause factors that make students' difficulties in speaking English during Covid-19

In this case the data result conducted by using observation an interview to find out the cause factors that make students difficulties in speaking English during Covid-19. According to the theory there are two factors that make students difficulties in speaking English they are; internal factors and external factors.

a. Internal Factors

From observation on Tuesday, July 26, 2022, and On Wednesday, October 3, 2022, the researcher conducted observation. The researcher found the cause factors that make students' difficulties in speaking English is the students had technical probleme.

From interview the researcher found that the students' cause factor that make their difficulties divide in to two part they are; cause physiology factors (cause sick and less of helt), and cause psychology factors (intelegence, aptitude, and interest). Some students said "Saya sulit belajar kalau sakit karena susah konsentrasi sakitnya yang dipikir, saya juga sulit kalau kurang sehat karena tetap tidak bisa focus kalau kurang sehat, kecerdasan saya dalam bahasa inggris masih kurang seperti grammar dan vocabulary, saya tidak berbakat dalam bahasa inggris masih bnyak kekurangan, saya tidak terlalu tertrik dengan bahasa inggris karena susah dipelajari”.

b. External factors

From observation the researcher found that the students feel difficult when the teacher used simple tools, condition of the room and inappropriate methods. From interview the researcher found that the students feel difficult cause tool factor, room condition is not good, family factor, and social environment. From the result we can see that the student feel difficult, “Saya suka kalau pakai alat karena lebih cepat paham kalau ada alatnya, saya lebih suka kalau pembelajaran offline kalau online susah kalau tidak ada jaringan, keluarga saya tidak terlalu memperhatikan tentang pembelajaran bahasa inggris saya, lingkungan sangat mempengaruhi karena susah ketemu teman belajar bersama”. Other students said “menurut saya penggunaan alat lebih mudah dipahami daripada tidak ada, saya sangat sulit belajar online karena pembelajaran cuman lewat chat, keluarga saya mendukung tapi saya kurang dekat dengan keluarga, lingkungan saya berpengaruh karena kondisi pandemic”.

From the instrument, the researcher found out cause factor that make students’ difficulties in speaking English during Covid-19. Based on the theory, there were two cause factors of the student's difficulties in speaking English they are; internal factors and external factors.

The researcher came at the following conclusions after reviewing the results of the observation and interview sheets:

a. Internal Factors

The students feel difficulties when they are sick, still not smart in terms of English, feel not talented in English and the teacher didn't use learning tools.

b. External Factors

The students feel difficulties in speaking English when they are not interest in learning, class room condition not good and technical problame.

Base on the result, that all researcher found in this research about couse factors that make the students feel difficult in speaking English during Covid-19.

1) Students' strategies to overcome their difficulties in speaking English during Covid-19

In this result, the researcher used interview to find students strategies to overcoming their difficulties. According to the teory there are four strategies they are; repetition, big group & small group, mandatory participation, and preparation.

From the interview the researcher just fond out three strategies using by the students they are repetition, big group & small group, and preparation. Some students said "palingan diulang-ulang saja pembelajaran kak". From focused interview the student said; "saya sering mengulang-ulang pembelajaran karena susah dimengerti, kalau kelompok besar atau kelompok kecil saya perna mendapatkannya dan lebih mudah dikerjakan kalau ada kelompok, saya juga tidak diwajibkan berbahasa inggris karena belum bisa, dan kalau melakukan persiapan tidak ada karena tidak perlu jhi".

From the interview which had been conducted with the 22 students, the sixth respondents are the representative responds, researcher done an interview as qualitative design to find out the students strategies to overcoming their difficulties in speaking English during Covid-19.

From students strategies according to the theory, there are four strategies to overcoming students difficulties they are; Repetition, big group and small group, mandatory participation, and preparation. Based on the result from interview, the students just used three strategies they are:

- 1) The students do repetition to overcome their difficulties to not forget their lesson before and to make sure their vocabulary.
- 2) The students used big group and small group created by the teacher to make students more active in the classroom and make relation with their friend.
- 3) The students do preparation before come in the class to prepare their self before come to classroom meeting.

The students' are not doing mandatory participation, because the students' stile has low skill in speaking English.

B. Discussion

In this case the researcher will discuss about the finding. The first formulation of the problem in this section is the students' difficulties in speaking English, the researcher also discussed the second formulation of the issue, which is the students cause factors that make the students difficulties in speaking English, and the last the students strategies to overcoming their difficulties. The study's participants created this work of research. They are second grade in MTs. DDI Kanang's, was the one that was observed.

1. The students difficulties in speaking English during Covid-19

Based on the findings, the researcher used observation, interview and support by documentation to learn about the students' difficulties with speaking instruction. After doing the study, the researcher discovered that students have difficulties acquiring speaking at MTs. DDI Kanang. From observation, the teacher taught the lesson in accordance with the procedure, the phenomena from the earlier research, unfortunately, unfortunately persisted in the current study. For example, the student's ability to learn speaking was still below average, and they found it difficult to participate in a conversation because they lacked the vocabulary and still had pronunciation issues.

The researcher thought that it occurred as a result of the teacher skipping some steps (see appendix 1). Due to their limited vocabulary and inability to communicate their ideas, the students had trouble participating in dialogue and consumed too much time during the session (see appendix 2).

In addition, from interview had finish with 22 students with three questions in open interview and four questions from focused interview. From open interview shows the students had difficult in speaking English when they not have data connection, not have mobile phone, not have chance to study with friend and not have money. From focused interview the students had difficulties in speaking when they are inhibition, nothing to say, low or uneven participation, and the used of mother tongue (see appendix 2). The data support by the students achivments score that the students feel difficulties in learning speaking after the online class over. Score from the first semester the students had higt score but when the online class is over in the second semester students score is down.

However, based on the findings of the students' observations and responses to the interview and support by documentation, there are issues with the Penny Ur theory (see pages 14) in this study, such; inhibition, nothing to say, low or uneven participation, and mother tongue use. Based on the result of the students' difficulties above, it could be inferred that the students difficulties explained in the theory happened to the students, even though there were more students difficulties that happened in learning speaking it was supported by Penny Ur. The result also support by Sayuri the previous findings, was conducted an analysis students speaking problems at Mulawarman University, the researcher found that students faced problem in speaking English related to pronunciation, fluency, grammar, and vocabulary. The other problems which were obtained from personal students' information, namely not having self-confidence, being afraid of making mistake, shyness to other, nervousness, inhabit in speaking, never practice, and nothing to say.²⁶

2. Students cause factors that make the students difficulties in speaking English during Covid-19

Based on the result from observation and interview, the researcher took some conclusion about the cause factors that make students difficulties in speaking English. According to M. Dalyono there were two factors that make students difficult in learning they are internal factors and external factors (see fage 16).

In this case, from the result all of the theory consisted in this research. For more details as follows:

a. Internal factors

Internal factors divide into two parts they are cause physiology factors and fsychology factors. From cause physiology factors the researcher found, the students had difficult in speaking when they are sick and less of healt and from cause psychology factors the researcher found, the students feel difficult in speaking when they are less intelligent, less aptitude, and not interest (see appendix 2).

b. External factors

External factors divide into two parts they are, Non-social factors and Social factors. From non-social factors the students feel difficult in speaking English when the teacher not using learning tools and the classroom condition and from social factors the students feel difficult when their family not support in learning speaking and social environment (see appendix 2).

This finding also find by Ayu zulfa Riftriani, the study found that the main factors of students' difficulties in speaking were lack of confidence, fear of making mistakes, shyness, and the environment. Based on the findings, it showed that internal and external factors had a great influence on students' speaking difficulties in giving oral presentation.²⁷ In this study, found fewer factors than the results of the above research, in this research found more difficulties factors.

Based on the result above, the researcher concluded that the students had two factors that make difficult in speaking English they are internal factors and external factors, Support by M. Dalyono.

3. Students strategies to overcome their difficulties in speaking English during Covid-19

Based on the result from interview the researcher took some conclude about the students strategies to overcoming their difficulties. According to Harmer theory, there are four strategies to overcoming their difficulties in speaking English they are; repetition, big group and small group, mandatory participation, and preparation. From the result just three strategies used by the students they are repetition, big group and small group, and preparation (see appendix 2).

Based on the result above, the researcher concluded that there are three strategies using by the students to overcoming their difficulties support by harmer theory.

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

After collecting the data and analyzing the result of the research, the researcher drew some conclusions and suggestion of the students' difficulties, cause factors make the students difficulties, and students strategies to overcoming their difficulties in speaking English during Covid-19 at the second grade of MTs. DDI Kanang.

A. Conclusion

Based on the data analysis, it can be concluded that:

1. The students difficulties in speaking English during Covid-19 they are:
 - a. The students feel have many obstacles they are forget their lesson before, lack of confidence, fear of making mistake, and technical problem.
 - b. The students feel shyness and limited vocabulary when the teacher giving a change to speak English in voice chat.
 - c. The students feel difficulties in pronouncing words and limited time to talking in online class.
2. The students cause factors that make students difficulties in speaking English during Covid-19 are:
 - a. Internal Factors
The students feel difficulties when they are sick, still not smart in terms of English, feel not talented in English and the teacher didn't use learning tools.
 - b. External Factors
The students feel difficulties in speaking English when they are not interest in learning, class room condition not good and technical probleme.
3. The students strategies

- a. The students do repetition to overcome their difficulties to not forget their lesson before and to make sure their vocabulary.
- b. The students used big group and small group created by the teacher to make students more active in the classroom and make relation with their friend.
- c. The students do preparation before come in the class to prepare their self before come to classroom meeting.

B. Suggestion

In consideration of the findings of the study, the researcher would like to make the following suggestions:

a. For the teacher

1. When teaching and learning speaking, the teacher should pay more attention to how each speaking technique is applied to each student and praying before study.
2. Due to the proximity of the class to a sports field, the teacher should speak clearly and aloud while introducing the material.
3. The teacher should manage the class to ensure that all speaking instruction procedures are followed and that the students are comfortable because this will affect their motivation to learn English, especially speaking.

b. For the students

1. The importance of knowing English should be understood by the students, especially once they have completed their education. They can use it as one of their skills to pursue their education.
2. It is best for students to memorize the vocabulary related to vacations and consistently practice speaking English in order to become competent in speaking.
3. The students keep on working hard in studies and participate in an English course to improve their speaking skills.
